~~Coaching and Mentoring | Factsheets | CIPD~~

Mentoring consists of a long-term relationship focused on supporting the growth and development of the mentee. The mentor becomes a source of wisdom, teaching, and support, but not someone who observes and advises on specific actions or behavioral changes in daily work.

~~Understanding the Role of a Mentor~~

The mentor listens and facilitates discussion to support the mentee in developing new ideas and perspectives, but does not seek to influence the mentee to a particular course of action. The objectives and actions the mentee generates from mentoring discussions are their own and are not directed by the mentor. In management or supervision, the manager will have a greater degree of influence over the course of action their employee takes. The manager or supervisor might set tasks or objectives ...

A mentor is an experienced guide who is empathetic and knows how it is to be in your shoes. A mentor provides feedbacks, suggestions and the imperative encouragement to move forward and helps you put your best foot forward to step up to the next level. Mentors exercise several techniques for taking learning to the next level.

~~The Importance of Mentoring and How Performance Management~~

Mentoring and managing students in the academic library by Michelle Reale, 2013, American Library Association edition, in English

~~Mentoring and Managing Students in the Academic Library~~

Mentoring is an indefinite, relationship based activity with several specific but wide ranging goals. It does not have to be a formal process. The mentor is a facilitator who works with either an individual or a group of people over an extended time period. The agenda is open and continues to evolve over the longer term.

~~Mentoring and Coaching | Chartered Institute of Management~~

• Mentoring: Mentoring takes place between young persons (i.e., mentees) and older or more experienced persons (i.e., mentors) who are acting in a non-professional helping capacity to provide relationship-based support that benefits one or more areas of the mentee's development.
