The decades starting with the 1990s witnessed the proliferation of a new kind of sector among the various agencies and governmental departments engaged in public service. This sector was the Non-Profit or the NGO (Non Governmental Organizations) that mushroomed all over the world to fill the gap between the governmental agencies and the public. The intention behind the creation of the NGO's was that in places where the government was either doing a bad job of service delivery or the ...

Non-governmental Organizations: Management and Development is a critical book which fills a significant gap - that of understanding how NGOs function and how they are managed. While Lewis uses development theory, anthropology, organisational theory and management studies to highlight the key changes and events shaping development NGOs' work and management, at times the book seems too wide in its scope while the focus on how NGOs work and are managed gets obscured.
